

Cookie Policy

What are cookies?

A cookie is a small text file containing information which a website asks your computer to store for next time you visit. Websites use cookies for lots of different reasons, such as storing preferences, logging you in, keeping track of things in your shopping basket, or telling the website owners how many different people visit the site.

Use of cookies on this website Cookies we set

- 1) To remember if you have seen the cookie policy notification.
- 2) If this site uses e-commerce, to remember your shopping basket, the items in it and your address. We do not keep any of your credit card or payment details!
- 3) If this site uses logins, to remember whether you are signed in or not.

Cookies others set

This website uses Google's analytics service to measure how many people visit the site, and which pages are visited. For more information about this cookie, see

Google's explanation

Managing cookies in your browser

If you would like to know more about cookies, or how to control and delete them, you can visit www.aboutcookies.org